AN EXCITING GAME OF FOOTBALL. LARGE ATTENDANCE OF SPECIATORS AT THE POLO GROUNDS YESTERDAY-PRINCETON MEN IN A LARGE MAJORITY-BRILLIANT PLAYING ON BOTH

Any reports that Princeton College is unhealthy will benceforth be discredited, not only from the size and muscle of the team of "Heavyweights" which vanquished Harvard at football at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, but also or account of the extraordinary lung power displayed by the crowds of Princeton men who witnessed the game. It is said that there were men present, be sides the Harvard team, who were not connected with Princeton College. From the ubiquitous display of yellow and black, and the constancy and unanimity of the Princeton cheers this seems doubtful. It seemed evident that all the undergraduates, a large fraction of the graduates, and a delegation from the faculty were encouraging the Princeton Eleven with hands and

The grand stand was filled, and a dense throng encircled the field, and, disregarding the inefficient police arrang ments, frequently encroached upon the players. The blue banner of the Polo Ciub, national flags, yellow and black and crimson pen nants fluttered all over the grounds. On the north side was a long line of coaches loaded with representatives of Princeton. Some of the coaches were draped with yellow and black, and handkerchiefs showing these colors were displayed on the tops o ail. Whenever Princeton gained an advantage the men on these coaches jumped to their feet and waved their handkerchiefs, while one of their number evoked a melancholy toot from a horn. Then they gave utterance to the remarkable Princeton cheer-"Hooray, Hooray, Hooray, Tiger, P-st-boom-la!" This was invariably echoed and reechoed by their comrades gathered around the field. A small knot of Harvard men modestly gathered in a corner occasionally emitted a feeble "Rah, Rah, Rah." At last some Columbia students took pity upon their loneliness and encouraged them by "Rah. Rab, Rah, C-o-l-n-m-b-1-a, Harvard." Toward the latter part of the contest, which was prolonged until dark, the noise grew positively deafening, but above everything rang out the "Boom-la" of the enthusiastic Princetonians.

The game was one of the most exerting and closely contested ever seen upon a foot-ball ground The Princeton men were larger and heavier than their opponents, and proved themselves admirable runsers and experts in passing the ball. But for runders and experts in passing the ball. But for the first half time the Harvard team kept up its prestige and outplayed its antagonists. The Harvard men seemed lacking in staying qualities, how ever, as in the last half of the play they appeared to become somewhat demoralized. One unpleasant feature of the game was the frequent disputes which apparently arose from an imperfect knowledge of the rules of the game.

The Princeton team was made up as follows:
Rushers—Beradord, Devereux, McKee, Peace, Loney (captain), Bryan.

Halt-backs—Withington, Winton, Morgan, Backs—Harvan, Caudwell.

The Harvard men were: Rushers-Atkinson, Clark, Boyd, Cabor, Houston, Per-ne, Thatcher.

Henry McAlpine was the judge for Princeton and Lucins N. Lattaner for Harvard, and the referee was Mr. Watson, of Yale.

It was a picture que sight when the men took their positions at a court a quarter of 3. Before the west goal, which was favored by the wing, stood the Princeton men in skull-caps, jerseys striped with yellow and black, looking like huge wasps. Confronting them was Harvard in crimson or white jerseys and white knee-breeches, while pressing close on every side to the whate line marking the limits of the field was a dense swaying throng of breathlessly interested partisans. Above the crowd flags fluttered in the westerly breeze, and from the grand stand a number of richly dressed women looked down upon the scene. As Princeton had won the choice of goals, Harvard had the kick-off. Keith sent the ball well forward, but it was caught and returned. A scrimmage followed in the middle of the field, and neither side gained much advantage till Loney, the Princeton capitain, observing that the Harvard backs were not in proper position, availed humself of the opening, and about 3:15 scoted the first goal for his side. A perfect storm of cheers rolled up from every quarter of the field. The few Harvard men among the spectators looked greatly depressed, but their representatives on the field ralled at once.

Slowly and desperately the ball was fought up to ward the Princeton goal. A Harvard rusher seized it and dasned swirily up the field pursued by the yellow and black Jerseys. At last he was tripped, rolled over on the ground and literally sat upon. Then the men formed double lines on each side of the ball, intently watching each other and trying to judge of the probable direction in which the bail would be thrown. Suddenly the bail rolled out from the ground and literally sat upon.

fenders were forced to resort to two safety touch-downs in rapid succession. Then time was called. The sides changed goals. Harvard at first seemed to have the advantage; then her men were driven back. The crowd constantly rushed in and inter-fered with the players. Keitn. Kent and Cabot, of Harvard, and Loney, Morgan and Wanton, of Prince-ton, especially distinguished themselves. Prince-ton was forced to a safety touch-down, our rails of and forced the fight up to the other line, where Harvard was obliged to reciprocate. Twice more Princeton touched the ball down behind her line for safety. The game was desperately contested and abounded in helliant place. Princeton touched the ball down behind her line for salety. The game was desperaiely contested and abounded in brilliant play. But Harvard Legan to fumble the ball, and the team was forced back. Suddenly the ball went over the Harvard line and was crushed beneath ball a dezen men. "Princeton! Princeton!" shouted Harvard line and was crushed beneath ball a dezen men. "Princeton! Princeton!" shouted the crowd and rushed in upon the players. But the decision was given in favor of Harvard. It was growing dark, and half the field was occupied by spectators. Another serimage over the line, again in favor of Harvard, but at last Princeton gained a touch down. The ball was placed, a man lay flat on the ground sighting toward the goal, and at last kicked, annots breathless silence, scoring a second goal for Princeton. Only eight minutes were left, and although Harvard struggled manfully in the gathering darkness, the efforts proved fruitless, and the score stood at the close: Princeton, two goals: Harvard, one.

ALBANY, Nov. 13 .- The Citizens Steamboat Company of Troy has filed with the Secretary of State the following statements: The value of the steamers City of Troy, Saratoga and Thomas Powell is $45,000; cash on hand and collectable claims due, $62,178 99 :

capital stock, $250,000; bonds, $200,000; estimated amount of uns led claims, $10,000.

SOME EFFECTS OF THE INTEREST LAW.

LEGACIES CUT DOWN BY THE OPERATION OF THE ACT-ONE LAWYER AGAINST IWENTY. A nice question, springing, not out of the construction of the new 6 per cent interest law, but from its indirect effects, was passed upon by Justice Law-rence in a decision rendered in the Supreme Court, special Term, yesterday. Commodore John Hodges Graham, of the United states Navy, died in March, 1878, leaving a will made three years previously. He left an annuity of $700 for life to Mrs. Helen T. Alden, and another of like amount to James F. Burrill. To secure the payment of these connuities the testator directed that in each instance $10,000 of his estate should be invested on bond and mortgage on property in this city at 7 per cent. A ter the death of Mrs. Alden the principal set aside for her use was to go to the American Bible Society and the Pomes-

At Mr. Burrili's death the other principal was to be given to St. Luke's Home and Hospital, Newburg, and the American Tract Society. The will also contained directions that $30,000 should be invested at 7 per cent, to be used by the trustees of the Parochial Fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese of New-York "for the benefit of those Episcopal ministers whose salaries are madequate to their support." The xecutors were instructed to divide the $2,100 of inome from t is fund into seven different snares and to cive each $300 portion to a minister whose salary did not exceed $500. The new interest law went into effect soon after the will was admitted to probate. The executors then came into court to have the will construed. Of course at 6 per cent interest the full amount of the annuities named could not be realized from the funds set apart for the purpose, and the principal question was whether the executors should set aside the principal sumnamed and distribute the decreased annuities arising at 6 per cent on these sums, or whether another sum should be added from the funds of the estate to keep the annuities up to the amount designated by the testator. There was also the subsidlary question as to whether, if another sum were added to the bequests, the societies that were residuary legaees should receive $10,000 at the death of Mrs. Alden and Mr. Burrill or the larger sum. Still a third question was as to whether the bequest to the Parochial Fund was void for uncertainty and vagueness.

Justice Lawrence holds that this last bequest Justice Lawrence holds that this last bequest is not so vague as to invalidate it. Unon the other questions he says that he supposes that did not occur to the testator when he made the will that the raie of interest in this State might be reduced to 6 per cent. He adds: "To my must be fair, plann meaning of the will is this: that the testator intended his executors to hivest the sum of $10,000 for each of the persons named, in the manner indicated by blin, expecting that from such investment each party would annually receive the sum of $700. He did not contemplate, on the oce hand, that the value of money would be insterially decreased, nor on the other that it would be increased. But ne gave to each the lawful annual increment of $10,000 invested by his executors as he had directed.

My conclusion is that the executors are to invest for the orneff of Mrs. Aiden and Mr. Burrill the sum of $10,000 cach and no more.

The remarks which I have made in reference to the provisions of the will in favor of Mrs. Aiden and Mr. Burrill are equally application of $2,100 per annum. The trustees will receive the sum of $2,100 per annum. The trustees will receive the sum of $2,100 per annum. The trustees will receive the sum of $2,100 per annum. The trustees will receive the sum of $30,000 and invest it for the purposes of the trust on the best rate of interest in their power."

John M. Knox represented by the testator, obtaining therefrom the best rate of interest in their power."

John M. Knox represented the executors and about twenty lawyers appeared for the other parties to the is not so vague as to invalidate it. Upon th'

SATURDAY, Nov. 13-P. M. With an easier feeling in regard to the future of the money market, the stock market to-day, although comparatively duil, gradually improved in figures from the opening of business to its close. The transactions amounted only to 265,600 shares, against 297,700 shares yesterday. The gains were less important in their amounts than in their character. The dealings at the Boards in Government bonds were not specially active, having amounted only to $96,500, but for the new issues prices were very strong. The bids for the 412s were further advanced 4, and for the 4s 4s per cent. The 6s of 1881 and 5s were about 18 lower. District of Columbia 3-65s were in active demand up to 99% paid and bid. The Treasury to-day received $19,000 6s of 1880 for redemption at 10234. Annexed are the
